INTRODUCTION

This book was found in the basement of the old court house in Batavia, Clermont County, Ohio and photocopied many years ago. It was leather-bound, size about 9 x 13 and in very poor condition. It did not have an index.

Since retiring I have found the time to compare the original handwriting of the marriage application book to the "Marriage Records of Clermont Co., OH 1800-1850" compiled by the Clermont County Genealogical Society. This book is not meant to diminish the value of the marriage record book nor the valiant effort by its members in copying the marriage returns. I believe that this book can be used as a companion to the marriage record book.

The handwriting is difficult to decipher in some cases so errors may occur. Also, the clerk may have misunderstood the name and many applicants could not read or write thus spelling errors occurred. Example: Hiram may have been spoken by the country folk as "Harm" etc. The upper case letters such as S & L; K,R, & P also, N & V are very hard to decipher In the lower case letters, er, ie, en are difficult. The m or n if doubled as in Hammer or Plummer, are run together. It must be remembered that the clerk had to use the old quill pen as a writing tool. The researcher now has the opportunity to decipher the handwriting from the original for himself or herself.

This book lists the ages of the applicants at the time of applying for a license or whether they were widowed. In cases where the applicant was under age an affidavit was made to verify the age and permission was given sometimes listing a parent.

Each name, bride and groom, has been cross-referenced in Sections II, III & IV and listed in alphabetical order, giving the page number where it can be found in Section I. Where the spelling of names differ, the surname or given name from the marriage application book is listed first and a parentheses ( ) lists the spelling from the marriage record book. In some cases the marriage application book may be correct and in other instances the marriage record book may be correct.
